

Course 1: Ad Hoc: (This course has been and is now employed on an ad hoc basis by the U. S. , and may be expected to continue in any event. It can be used in conjunction with others herein discussed.)

Courses 1 through 3 fall within the responsibility of the Central Intelligence Agency, which is specifically charged with the conduct of clandestine operations in support of U. S. national objectives. CIA is presently studying the problems which would be involved in developing and using these courses, and will subsequently indicate to State and Defense the kind and degree of support it will need from them, should these courses be further pursued. At that time, the Group believes it may be appropriate for the Department of Defense to consider the feasibility of cooperating with CIA to earmark and retain certain excess property for CIA's possible use.
